

Mhereas, music is a universal language that connects people through its ability to move and inspire us; one of the most compelling means of artistic expression by human beings, music has the capacity to stir emotions and feelings through the medium of sound and its creation and performance; and

Appereas, the study of music is a required subject in the New York State Learning Standards, and where those standards are based on the artistic processes of Creating, Performing, Responding and Connecting, all of which encourage students in every aspect of music from playing an instrument and singing, to composing original music, to expanding their capacity to listen and respond to various types of music, and to connect music to the world around us; and

Whereas, as an important part of a school's instructional program, music education not only benefits students by engaging them in creative and critical thought processes and problem-solving activities, but can also help them develop their own potential, skills, knowledge, and lifelong appreciation of music; and

Misc Education is recognized as part of a well-rounded education through performance in traditional and emerging ensembles, knowledge based general music coursework and integrated music opportunities that develop artistic and 21st Century Skills beneficial to students and all New Yorkers; and

never as, Music Education for all students is denoted in the "Every Student Succeeds Act" and is firmly supported as such by the New York State Legislative bodies and the New York State Board of Regents as being required for all students, and in so doing enhances the advancement of economic growth, good citizenship, and lifelong learning opportunities for all New Yorkers; and

Apperens, Edmund Chiarello, serving as the President of the New York State School Music Association has recognized the work of all music educators - to bring music education; including but not limited to - music experiences, music performances, music reflection, and music growth to all students, empowering students to take their love of music and their school music experiences with them to forever embellish and enrich their lives; and

Hereas, 2024 marks the 51st year of New York State's celebration of Music in Our Schools Month, which originated here as Music in Our Schools Day on March 14, 1973, and has since expanded, becoming a national program to raise awareness of the importance of music education and to remind us that all children should have access to a high quality music education; this annual observance is an excellent opportunity for music teachers to highlight the benefits and results of their music education programs to their schools, to parents, and to their communities; and

Thereas, the New York State School Music Association – in collaboration with the National Association for Music Education, school administrators, teachers, parents, students and musicians across the nation – will emphasize the many significant benefits of music instruction by participating in activities that celebrate Music in Our Schools Month throughout March, and it is fitting that all New Yorkers participate in this observance at the national, state, and local levels, further expressing our support for music education in schools;

Now, Therefore, I, Kathy Hochul, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim March 2024 as in the Empire State.

Music In Our Schools Month

Given under my hand and the Privy Seal of the State at the Capitol in the City of Albany this first day of March in the year two thousand twenty four.

Secretary to the Governor

Governor